Yousuf loves visiting his grandfather in the old village. Last Friday, his grandfather showed him a black and white photo. In the photo, there was a small school with only twenty students. 'This was my school,' Grandfather said with a smile. 'We sat on the floor, and we had one book for every three boys.' Yousuf was very surprised. His school has two thousand students, smart boards in every class, and a big library! That evening, Yousuf wrote about the photo in his notebook. He felt very lucky to live now, but he also really loved hearing all the stories about the old days.
